

Legislature has made a decision in this body this morning and we had ought to go ahead and read the bill. We had ought to say we have made a decision and not postpone it, giving us that much longer to be lobbied. Clearly, the issue is, and I am not sure that too many people understand this, but the issue is where the burden lies, whether it lies on the purchaser or whether it lies on the security interest holder to let people know where the security interests are at. And if you are an individual purchaser or a business, it would be, it seems to me, much more preferable to leave the situation as it is. And, as I indicated before, it is happening. It is happening right now. It is not as if the prenotification cannot take place. Now, if you are concerned about the cost to the government, if you are concerned about future costs, it seems to me you had ought to be concerned about what you are about to do because it is apparent to me that it is going to cost an awful lot of money to create and to maintain such a system, especially...and it may cost an awful lot of money to some of your business folks who use this system. Now, maybe you are not interested in that or concerned about it but I think we had ought to not bracket the bill. I think we had ought to go ahead and read it because I think this body has made the decision. Thank you, Mr. President.

SENATOR CARSTEN: Thank you, Senator Vickers. Senator Rod Johnson, please.

SENATOR R. JOHNSON: Mr. President, members, not to be accused of carrying water for special interests here, I am going to in good faith withdraw the bracketing motion to allow other motions to be considered and, as I said earlier on my previous motion, I think in the end some people will be sorry that we passed up this opportunity and I think you are making a mistake but I can't change the vote at this particular time. So I will withdraw the bracket motion and allow the other motions to be considered.

SENATOR CARSTEN: The motion is withdrawn. Do you have anything further on the bill, Mr. Clerk?

CLERK: Mr. President, Senator DeCamp would move to return the bill.

SENATOR CARSTEN: Senator DeCamp.

SENATOR DECAMP: Mr. President, my amendments are truly noncontroversial but they are necessary just to maintain and
